

Diversion First

RESTORING HOPE, REPAIRING HARM. SERVING YOUTH SAFELY IN THE COMMUNITY.

Diversion First is part of a state-wide effort to divert youth from formal processing in the juvenile justice system for primarily low-level offenses, which could otherwise result in a referral to Juvenile Court and thus improve their long-term outcomes. Diversion First utilizes the Youth Diversion Team (YDT) model, Trauma-Informed Restorative Diversion, a restorative justice approach designed to focus on accountability of harm and offering supports to address underlying needs. Youth take accountability for their actions, while community accountability ensures that the youth's needs are met. The shared accountability reinforces the youth's connection to the community and engagement in pro-social behaviors.
